Question 03

Read the following paragraph and Find out two words or phrases from the text for each of the following categories.

There is no more pleasurable and profitable form of keeping indoor pets than the culture of fresh water fish. Both the ancient Romans and the Chinese were very interested in it and are said to have spent vast sums in building elaborate ponds to rear some of the most rare and most costly varieties. Even today fish keeping as a hobby has lost none of its charms. This is very useful for the unemployed. Some, by keeping fish, earn better than others do. If you keep a small aquarium at home and rear a few fish in it, you will be able to see at leisure a bit of the varied drama and beauty of the under-world. The tank must have as natural a setting as possible, for then only will fish make it a happy home, and multiply in number. Those interested can begin with the resources available. Angel Fish and Golden Fish are some of the favorites of aquarists. The male and female of the Angels should be kept apart by placing a sheet of glass between them until they show definite signs of mutual affection. They build their nest in the sand and lay eggs about 500 which will hatch within two weeks. The aquarist will have to suffer loss at the start. For want of experience, he may not be able to provide the fish with a well-conditioned tank. The result is that some specimens may die. Incorrect feeding too may bring about several deaths. These losses are really painful and disheartening, but with patience and experience, you will find your hobby one of absorbing interest. Once you know the art of looking after them well and assisting them in times of distress, you will have one of the pleasantest hobbies that will reveal to you the most fascinating secrets and wonders of fish life and you can lead your life more freely and happily than many others do at present.
